Leaders Engaging Hearts and Minds

“Pam is an expert in individual, group, organizational change & executive coaching, thinking and relating. Could not have a much better combination plus... she is a lot of fun.”

Career Background

Pam is a consultant/coach who incorporates stakeholder viewpoints, crafting a broad-based picture from which strategy is developed, refined and implemented. Her years of working in healthcare industry include working with front line, mid-level and senior leaders, medical staff and boards of directors.

She is collaborative and proactive. She can listen to the chaos in a group discussion, or the confusion or over-loaded circuits in an individual’s mind, and create clarity and understanding. She believes all people need a chance to shine and be known. She has coached individuals and teams to take the “risky” steps, getting outside their comfort zone, and achieving their next level of growth.
